HOSTED BY FAST – FOUNDATION FOR ANGELMAN SYNDROME THERAPEUTICS

Chicago, December 7-8, 2018

OUR SOLE MISSION: CURE ANGELMAN SYNDROME

FAST's Global Summit & Gala is the largest gathering of Angelman syndrome (AS) families in the world. By supporting this event, you will reach 1,000+ AS family members onsite and thousands more around the globe who are participating via our livestream to learn about the latest scientific advancements, potential clinical trials, helpful products and services, and what they can do to assist in accelerating treatments and a cure for AS. Your sponsorship supports the ongoing development of promising transformative therapeutics to treat and cure Angelman syndrome. View the sponsor levels below to determine how you would like to contribute – or share your own sponsorship ideas. There are many ways to support FAST and help advance our mission.

This year marks FAST's 10th anniversary. Paula Evans, an Illinois mother whose daughter, Ainsley, was diagnosed with Angelman syndrome, founded FAST in 2008 on Ainsley's fourth birthday. At the time, no one believed that a cure was possible. The first gala was held in December of that year, and it was attended by parents and friends who shared Paula's dream.

Today, five gene therapy strategies are in development to treat Angelman syndrome.

Your donation to FAST research funds all of them.

One Team. One Mission. Global Summit & Gala!

FAST (Foundation for Angelman Syndrome Therapeutics) will host its annual Global Summit & Gala Dec. 7-8, 2018. The star-studded event draws more than 1,000 attendees and is recognized as Chicago's biggest celebrity fundraiser. The gala features an auction that helps generate significant revenue for FAST. FAST is the largest nongovernmental funder of Angelman syndrome (AS) research.

"Angelman syndrome holds one of the single most optimistic possibilities for a cure."

- Arthur L. Beaudet, M.D.
Responsible for identifying the gene that causes Angelman syndrome

By supporting FAST's auction you are not only making an investment in finding treatments for Angelman syndrome but also a host of other disorders. Researchers and pharmaceutical companies are interested in Angelman syndrome because it is a single-gene disorder. They believe that finding treatments for AS will help pave the way for breakthroughs with multigene disorders like autism and Alzheimer's disease.

FAST

FAST is the largest, nongovernmental funder of Angelman-specific research in the world. Paula Evans, an Illinois mother whose daughter was diagnosed with Angelman syndrome, founded FAST in 2008. FAST raises money to fuel cutting-edge research and takes an active role in drug development to treat, and ultimately cure, the disorder.

FAST is a registered nonprofit, tax-exempt charitable organization under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Donations are tax deductible as allowed by law. Please consult your tax advisor for specific guidance. FAST's Employer Identification Number (EIN) is 26-3160079.

What is Angelman syndrome?

Angelman syndrome (AS) is a rare neurogenetic disorder that affects approximately one in 15,000 people – about 500,000 individuals worldwide. Children and adults with AS typically have balance issues, motor impairment and debilitating seizures. Some individuals never walk. Most do not speak. Disrupted sleep cycles also can be a serious challenge to the individual and caretaker(s). Individuals with AS require continuous care and are unable to live independently. They have a normal life expectancy. In most cases, Angelman syndrome isn't inherited. Angelman syndrome was named after Harry Angelman, an English pediatrician, who first described the syndrome in 1965.
